D1 Girls Save Best for Last

The Division 1 girls of Kare Youth League get the final weekend at Mount Kare for winter camp. The AA & Pac 12 camp was a sellout so sign up right away to guarantee a spot.

Running with the Giants (excerpt by John C. Maxwell)

A girl approaches, "Nothing seemed unusual to me that evening as I approached the town spring. While I awaited my turn to draw water, I visited with friends and talked about the day's events. After I drew the water, "she continues, "I placed the jar on my shoulder and began the walk toward home. Then a stranger came up to me and asked for a drink. He was an older man with a kind voice. He was dressed like a servant, but obviously from a good house. And he was dusty, like he had been traveling a long time. "Without hesitation, I lowered my jar and gave him some water. He took a good, long drink, and that's when I noticed his camels. As thirsty as he was, I realized that his camels must also be in need of water. So I offered to give them water too." She pauses to ponder her next thought.

"Little did I realize how this act of generosity would change my life and the lives of so many other people. Little did I know that my actions were the answer to a servant's prayer and the plan of my sovereign God. All I did was do what I felt I should. You must do the same: Give generously to others."

The woman is none other than Rebekah. She didn't know that the man she served was the chief servant of Abraham or that he had been sent to find a bride for Abraham's son, Isaac. The offer she made may have taken as long as two hours to fulfill, yet, she did it anyway. That set her apart from all the other women who had gathered at the spring that evening. And as a result, her life changed in ways she could not have imagined.
